It is believed that ads have reached their peak, and they should start to decline in the future. Unfortunately, they haven't, and they never will. In order to get rid of such obnoxious advertisements, one could use an anti-ad or ad-blocker. They are designed to get rid of the ads in a browser. They can't permanently remove them, but they can prevent them from appearing until the user gets rid of them manually. For example, Adblock Plus can prevent ads from appearing until you disable them.
