Our cozy romance has become a pandemic as our relationship has become a quarantine—a divided time where we spend apart to avoid catching coronavirus. A half-a-day apart is a full-day absence, and a full-day absence is just too isolating for a blossoming relationship. So, to avoid getting sick from isolation, we'll have to learn to love from afar. It's been a long time since we've been alone—to have the freedom to do whatever we want, when we want. But that serenity and disconnection comes with a cost. Find out if this quarantine is too much for your relationship to bear, or if it'll show the way to a fresh start. Features: Explore how the pandemic affects both of your lives: home, neighborhood, town, and campus Experience a tapestry of seemingly unrelated moments of each other's life that weave into your story Find out if this pandemic is too much for your relationship to bear, or if it'll be a new start for you About the 2.5D Pixel Art: Whether you're playing alone, with your friends, or with a partner, I hope you enjoy the unique drawing style of Half Past Fate. The game offers a touching, timeless love story you can play alone or with a friend, and each of you can make your own decisions about where the story goes. Come enjoy the novel and try your hand at it, but whatever your decision, I hope it'll be the next best thing to reading the book version! Thank you for your interest in my game, -Evan Developer of Half Past Fate: Romantic Distancing What if you and your partner could live side by side with the public while they're on social distancing? One partner goes into work while the other one stays home and lives alone while being in quarantine, and the opposite for the first one. Living in quarantine is no easy feat, especially when you're trying to figure out how to maintain a connection while living a completely separate, subdued life on opposite sides of the country. With this new episode of the Half Past Fate: Romantic Distancing story, you'll play as both partners, experiencing the only quarantine where one is at home and the other is on the frontlines. Features: The only quarantine where both partners go into

General TipsWhen playing Hexceed, the world is divided into hexes, or large squares. To defeat your opponent, your goal is to remove their row of blocks in the center of their world. Each block they have removed destroys one of their life. They must then restart at the beginning of their life, with one more block removed than you do.The goal in Hexceed is to remove your opponent's life to victory before they reach their life. Hexceed is designed around this idea. In other words, if you can remove the next block before they remove their first, you will win!Each block has a life bar and a health bar. The life bar is the only mechanic you will have to worry about when playing Hexceed.Health is how much damage your enemy can inflict on you and on your world. Damage is directly proportional to how much of the life you have removed from the block, so you should always try to remove blocks from the life bar first.Removing more blocks than your opponent removes is always going to be more difficult. Whenever you are removing from the life, you are also removing from their health, and vice versa. Hitting each block twice is the same damage as removing one life.To help you maintain an advantage and pressure your enemy, Hexceed includes a timer. The timer goes up at the end of your turn and goes down at the end of their turn. If it gets to zero, then that is when your opponent's turn will start. If the timer ever reaches 10 or less, then that means you have finished your turn and you should remove one life from one of your blocks, then wait for them to get their turn. Whenever they get their turn, you will then remove one life from their block and your life will be instantly restored.If you are ever in a rush and want to just destroy your opponent's world right away, you can press X to engage the doomsday attack. When the countdown reaches zero, you get to remove all of your opponent's blocks and restore your life. They will be left in the wasteland with only one block removed.General StrategiesYour goal in Hexceed is to remove blocks from your opponents life, and to prevent them from removing blocks from their life. You can use this information to your advantage by planning ahead.First and foremost, you should always be attempting to remove blocks from your opponent's life as quickly as possible. While they are in their turn, you will always have more control over your world, and can destroy blocks they have

are all short term 3-4 nights shore excursions that people hold in their bucket list. EXPERIENCE A DIFFERENT WAY OF CIVILIZATION The longest adventure we offer is a 5 nights sailing from Makassar to Kepala Batik. This is an ideal adventure for people looking to see a different way of life and for those who love sailing, for it is truly a sailing adventure of a lifetime. Our own yacht is a classic wooden sailing ship made in 1908. With 5 double and 2 twin-bed cabins, it can sleep up to 24 people. SAILING IS AN INDO-EUROPEAN TRADITION Our own Wawela dive vessel "Talimali" is in part to honor that tradition. In the past, we had our own ice-ship named "Tudor" that sailed from Makassar to Amsterdam in 30 days! EXPLORE THE NATURE AND UNDERWATER OF THIS DELICIOUS PROVINCE Wolungrat Beach, which we will visit, is famous for its Lipstinger Elephant, which is said to be the longest living elephant in the world. The beautiful fringing reefs and 120 km long fringing reef bank of Wakatobi are the source of a wealth of marine life in these waters including Sea turtles, manta rays, an abundance of species of fish, and tropical coral gardens. We love to use Werraa as a base as we can visit local villages on neighbouring islands and watch the daily lives of the people of Bol I believe it is often called. Check out our wonderful blog about what made us this, a kind word from one of our crew, an exclusive interview with Edo the ship's 'captain' and previous 40 years of sailing and time as a trader on the Singapore and South China Seas! OUR TEAM TOCOViX is owned and operated by three crazy Kiwis, whose passions are corals, scuba diving, sailing and working together as a team. If at any point you are having a bit of a hard time onboard, we will jump in to the fray with our collective expertise! YOU AND YOUR DIVING DOC We like to leave our Guests the option to have their eyes opened by an accredited Divemaster/Guide. However, we know people aren't always diving on their own, hence our Divemaster is on-board at all times and
