the interactive specification flowsheet guides provide a detailed look at how a design solution will function in practice. the specification flowsheet is a dynamic form that asks a series of questions which provide a better understanding of the solution as you are viewing it. in addition to customizing the flow sheet to suit your project needs, the guides also allow you to add and configure buttons, submit buttons and hyperlinks which link the reader to the next page of the specification flowsheet. the guides also allow you to perform non-destructive changes to the specification flowsheet before you save it, so that you can iterate the solution as you need in order to make your project work better. the specification flowsheet can be saved and exported into a pdf file, so that it can be shared with clients, co-workers or colleagues. the interactive floorplan guides are designed to provide a detailed overview of your project in the form of an interactive floorplan. each page of the interactive floorplan has a unique and embedded relative layout, which can be utilized to either define the grid system of your layout, or rearrange the cells within a predefined grid. this interactive floorplan can be saved and exported as a pdf file, so that it can be shared with clients, co-workers or colleagues. the guides can also be used for presentations, so that the key design concepts are easily shared. interactive banner design guides are designed to display a display banner for use in presentations or publications. the interactive banner flow sheets start with a visual representation of the design solution. once the user answers a series of questions, they can then add dynamic changes to the display banner, which results in a fully interactive and editable document.
